CHOICE OF PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS. - The Washlington Union, confesses its inability to answer the inquiries of a correspondent, with regard to the manner in which electors of President and Vice President are shoren in the New England States; or whether a majority or plurality is requisite for a choice by the

We believe the facts are these, viz.: that a plurality elects in Maine, Vermont, Connecticut, and Rhode Island; while a majority is required in Massachusetts and New Hampshire. In the two latter States, if a majority of the votes of the people of the State voting, is not given for any candidate for elector, the choice devolves on the Legislature; a majority of which, without much doubt, are for Taylor in Massachusetts, and for Cass in New Hampshire.

THE THIRTY-FIRST CONGRESS.-Fifteen members of the Thirty-first Congress are already elected, viz. : one in Arkansas, five in Missouri, two in Iowa, and seven in Illinois. E. D. Baker, of Illinois, is the only whig of the fifteen. These show no changes, politically, compared with the delegations from the same States in the present Congress. only States where material changes may be expected, are New York and Pennsylvania—as we suppose the Ohio delegation will be composed of eight Taylor whigs, three anti-Taylor whigs, and ten democrate, professing free sell doctrines, but supporting Case and Butler.

In Pennsylvania, our impressions are that the democrate will gain some members, as thirteen of the twenty-four districts gave majorities for Polk over Clay in 1844, and the members of the present Congress, (several whigs having been chosen from democratic districts) were elected in the heat of the tariff of 1842. On the other hand, we think the whige will gain in the State of New Yerk as many members as they may lose in Pennsylvania, in consequence of the division lose in Pennsylvania, in consequence of the division of the democratic party. Not more than five or six districts are safe for the democrates, and of these, probably, all but one will be Van Buren, free soil men, or barnburners.

RENTUCKY.

According to the Louisville Journal, Mr. Crittenden says that swherever he went, during his late canvass in Kentucky, he saw or heard of numbers of democrats who avowed their determination to vote for General Taylor. He adds, that, if any one of these democrats voted for himself he is not aware of it. He confidently believes that Kentucky will go for General Taylor by a majority of 20,000.

per cent premium, for the best bills in the market. The steamer having just left, the demand is limited. The Washington does not bring anything new. Her advices are only one day later from London, she having sailed on Sunday, the 20th of Aug. The most important item of intelligence, is the announcement that a favor-able change had taken place in the weather, and the prospect, relative to the gathering of the grain crops, was more encouraging. The Hibernia, now nearly due at Boston, from Liverpool, with six days' later news will settle the question regarding the harvests. In the meantime, it will be well for speculators in breadstuffs to keep quiet.

The Phoenix Bank of Hartford has declared a dividend of four dollars per share. The Hartford Bank has declared an extra dividend of two dollars per share. The Ætna Insurance Company of Hartford have de clared a dividend of five dollars per share. Since the arrival of the last steamer from Europe, there has been considerable activity in agricultural produce of all kinds; and movements in produce generally, and breadstuffs particularly, are of much importance to those engaged in trade. A few weeks since, the shipments of flour and grain were to such a limited extent that very little interest was attached to them in any way, and the prospect was that the bulk of our surplus would remain in first hands for another season, at least. Since that a vast revolution has taken place—a revolution nearly as great as that realized in the political world, within the past year. Instead of the inactivity and spathy which prevailed all is now bustle and activity. The annexed table exhibits the quantity of certain articles exported from this port, distinguishing the destination and extent of shipments to each place, for the week ending the 4th inst. This covers only two days operations, since the steamer's arrival, and of course does not show the full effect of the latest European advices upon movements in this market:-

The shipments of flour to Great Britain and Ireland.

The shipments of flour to Great Britain and Ireland, for the week, amounted to 5,329 barrels, and corn 201,601 bushels—the aggregate shipment of flour to all parts, 16,359 bbls. This week, we have no doubt the exportation will be at least double that of last, and as the season progresses, rapidly increase. The ship-ments of corn for the same week last year, only amounted to 4,064 bushels. Last year, at this time, the exports of breadstuffs were limited—the speculation in breadstuffs had ceased, and the rapid depreciation in prices, had suddenly suspended shipments. Move-ments in breadstuffs, therefore, for the remainder of this season, compared with those for the same period last, will show a large increase. It is probable that the shipments of Indian corn will be particularly large, as that grain is peculiarly calculated to supply the deficiency in the crop of potatoes; and then as an article of food among the lower classes, it will at all times, and in any state of the harvesta, be an important item of importation to Great Britain and Ireland. This grain has already become one of our staple articles of export; and as the production in this country is immense, and can, in a year or two, be doubled, if necessary, any demand from abroad can be easily supplied.

It will be perceived by the above table, that our exports to France and other countries on the Continent, are alowly increasing. It is encouraging that there is even the alightest improvement visible, as it shows a return of confidence indicative of better times.

The annexed returns of the Bank of England for several periods, widely separated, show a uniformity of movement in the issuing department, very different from that in the early part of the financial revulsion being a decrease of £526,390; and the stock of bullio of £31,663, when compared with the preceding rein both departments is £13.364,991, showing a decrease

The decrease in bullion has been caused by the foreign2demand, and by the demand from the country banks. The variation is so triffing as to be hardly worth noticing; but it is the prospective demand which is considered of such serious importance. What is considered the most favorable feature in the latest returns is the continuation of the decrease in other than government securities, the large increase of reserve notes in the banking department, and nearly a corresponding diminution in the actual circulation. These movements clearly show a contraction rather than an expansion in commercial credit, indicating a cautiousness which, in the face of the reports relative to the harvest, is certainly commendable.

The latest returns of the Bank of France, compared with those of July 29th, exhibit a very great improvement in the leading departments:-

It appears that from July 29th to August 17th, there had been an important accession to the amount of specie on hand, and a reduction in the circulation. There had also been a reduction in the line of discounts, and in the amount of protested bills. The

CITY TRADE REPORT.

Wednesday, September 6—6 P. M.

In the forenoon the heaviness manifested yesterday in the flour, market continued; but during 'change, a better feeling prevailed, and a fair amount of sales was made at the full rates of yesterday. The market closed steady. Wheat continued in good demand, and sales were pretty freely made, and in some cases at an advance. Corn continued firm, and sales were sgain freely made at ifull prices. Meal remained the same. Rye exhibited no change. Oats were about the same, with free sales. Provisions were in steady demand. Sales of mess pork were made at an advance. Lard remained about the same. Groceries were steady, with fair sales, at firmer prices for sugars. There was rather more doing in coffee, on terms stated below. The news brought by the steamship Washington, and published in an extra, had no bearing upon the markets, it being considered, commercially speaking, of no later date.

Ashes.—Small sales of pots were making at $5 50, and of pearls at $5 87½. Pots closed firm.
